Phoenix Hotel Stakes.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 1.-The Phoenix Hotel stakes was the event at the Lexington races to-day. Only three started. It iwas a pretty fight between Byron McClellan's Prince Lief and Ringold's Kentucky derby candidate, Semper Ego. The latter led until well into the stretch, when Prince Lief came on and won by a length. Semper to-day's performance indicates he will be dangerous in the derby. The fifth race was for two-year-old fillies, and was won by John E. Madden's Grace Taffey. The other three races were rather tame affairs for three-year-olds and over track dusty. Sum-

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.-The national bicycle racing circuit for the season of 1896 was inaugurated at Oakland to-day in connection with the floral carnival. The races were well contested throughout. The attendance was immense, over 12,000 people witnessing the races. The track, which is a mile horse track, was very rough, and a strong wind blew in the faces of the riders on the home stretch. The professional races brought out about a dozen men, halling from all parts of the country, but the professional honors fell to the California boys. The two-mile handicap was won by John Edwards, of this city, and the mile open was won by Wilbur J. Edwards, of San Jose, who easily defeated Cinton R. Coulter. A sextuplet was rode an exhibition mile in 1:58, which, considering the condition of the track and heavy wind, is remarkable time, and the feat caused much applause. Summaries:

GENERAL HENDERSON, OF IOWA, PRAISES THE EX-PRESIDENT.

And Statesmen and Correspondents at Washington Profess to See a Political Motive in the Speech.

MAJ. M'KINLEY'S SWIFT RACE

RAPIDLY DISORGANIZING THE ALLI-SON AND REED FORCES,

And They Are Said to Be Casting About for a Candidate on Whom They Can Unite Their Support.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, May 1.-Gossip to-night turns about Representative Henderson's possible motive in bringing into to-day's debate on the bankruptcy bill the name of ex-President Benjamin Harrison. Mr. Henderson, during his speech, said he would read a letter from one of the most eminent men in contemporaneous life. After reading the letter he announced that its author was ex-President Harrison, and the lowa Representative then added a glowing tribute to the ex-President. Under ordinary circumstances it is quite probable that the incident would have passed without notice, and that Mr. Henderson's assurance that he had no ulterior purpose in the mention of Mr. Harrison's name would be accepted as true. But the present circumstances are not ordinary. The events of the past two days have made the presidential situation extraordinary. In two States, as far apart as Vermont and Illinois, the McKinley sentiment has shown itself to be able to overturn all plans made by party managers. The anti-McKinley forces have been routed. It is idle to deny this plain statement. Mr. Manjey, Speaker Reed's manager, affects to statement showing the relative strength of the two candidates, Reed and McKinley, But the truth is that Mr. Manley's table will arouse little interest. The general opinion is that the anti-McKinley men are just now in a critical position, and that unless something is done to rally the broken and dismayed forces the battle is lost. Therefore, the idea is strong to-night that Mr. Henderson's mention of General Harrison's name to-day was for the purpose of unfurling a new standard about which the opposition can rally and make a fresh stand. Mr. Henderson is Senator Allison's representative in the House. The relations between General Harrison and Senator Allison are known to be so cordial that it has always been understood in Washington that the Iowa Senator was Mr. Harrison's preference for the presidential nomination, and in all careful lists of the probable strength of the various candidates Mr. Allison has always been credited with a strong following in the Indiana delegation. Hence it is argued that Senator Allison, recognizing that the anti-McKinley men, being almost overwhelmed now, when Allison or Reed are the recognized standard bearers, believe that General Harrison is the only name which can galvanize the now moribund opposition into new life.

The members of the Indiana delegation do not discuss the proposition. The State convention meets next week, and they prefer that the matter be discussed then and there. They concede that the present situation has given a fresh impetus to the already powerful sentiment against instructing the delegation for Mr. McKinley. With the exception of Messrs. Royse, Hardy and Johnson all the Representatives expect to attend Mr. Henry has already gone, and Leighty, Steele and Hemenway left to-day.

He Doesn't Think the Springfield Convention Settles Anything. Washington Special to Pittsburg Commer-

"The result in Illinois is by no means conclusive. Three of the four delegates at large elected at Springfield to-day are pronounced anti-McKinley men."

The above statement was given to the correspondent by Senator Quay at 1 o'clock this morning. The Senator was at the residence the Republican party. The conference had then been in session for six hours, and the indictaions were that it might last all night. It was the impression of all present that McKinley would have trouble to read his title clear to the nomination, and that there would be more than one ballot at the St

They were advised early of the result, and did not wish to talk until they knew all the particulars. Senator Allison was at home, but modestly declined to discuss the matter. Reed, Allison, Morton and Quay have no intention of withdrawing. It is declared their names will be presented to the St. Louis convention, and that their friends are confident that there will be more ballots than one before the next President is nominated. They do not propose to be stampeded by the loss of a few delegates, and can be relied upon to inated-Platt's Views. NEW YORK, May 1.-In a communication to the Commercial Advertiser to-day on the outlook for the Republican presidential nomination the Hon. Joseph H. Manley, of Augusta, Me., says: "Any speculation to the effect that friends of Speaker Reed mean to withdraw him from the contest or that they are discouraged is baseless. There has never been a single instant during the campaign when we ever dreamed of such a thing. We do not now. We will not. McKinley will never be nominated. It will be the issue that will win at St. Louis. That issue will be sound money.'

Ex-Senator T. C. Platt says: "I am of the opinion that McKinley has not captured enough votes to be nominated, but I am not prepared to disprove the figures of McKin-ley's managers just now. I expect to have something to say later on. At first glance the figures do not seem to have much substantial basis. But I will say, and most emphatically, too, that Morton is still in the race and to stay. He is not going to be with-drawn. And we are not 'giving up' any-

WASHINGTON, May 1.-Representative Powers, of Vermont, who was present at the recent Republican State convention, was asked to-day regarding the conflicting reports as to tabling the resolution expressing preference for McKinley for President, and said: "The resolutions expressing preference for McKinley were not tabled. Some other resolution, the purport of which I do not remember and which no one wanted, was tabled. I have seen the newspaper reports which have the McKinley resolution tabled. They were incorrect." The Associate Press stated that the preference resolutions was adopted. The report that it was laid on the table was sent out by another news

EX-SENATOR WALLACE DYING.

Noted Pennsylvanian Suffering from Paralysis at New York.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Ex-United States senator William A. Wallace, of Clearfield, Pa., is unconscious and in a dying condition at his residence in Eighty-eighth street, this city. Senator Wallace was stricken with paralysis on Feb. 27 last and grew steadily worse. He has received the best of medical attention and, despite his alarming condition, it was hoped that he would recover.

At a late hour to-night Senator Wallace was still alive, although it was stated by an occupant of his house that he was critically ill. Details as to his condition beyond that statement were refused. It was inferred from the conversation with the person at Mr. Wallace's residence that his death was not momentarily expected.

William A. Wallace was born in Clearfield, Pa., on Nov. 28, 1827. He received an academic education, was admitted to the bar in 1847 and devoted himself to his profession till his entrance into politics in 1862 as a member of the State Senate. He served five successive terms in that body; was its Speaker in 1871, senatorial delegate and chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation to national Democratic convention in chairman of the Democratic State committee of Pennsylvania for five years and a member of the commission to suggest amendments to the State Constitution in 1874.
